Health guide service at family primary school
centres in Cologne

About us

The health guide service is provided at the 9 family primary school centres within the City of Cologne. It is intended for all pupils, their families and the staff at these schools.

The health guides are trained paediatric nurses and will advise you on all topics relating to health, illness and illness prevention.

The goal of this service is to allow children to grow up as healthy as possible.

- Does your child often feel tired and floppy?
- Are they not eating properly?
- Do they have repeat complaints or a chronic illness?
- Are you unsure whether you should go to a doctor?
- Do you need support looking for a suitable doctor?

Just get in touch – we are happy to help!

To help us understand each other, our health guides can also employ the services of a video interpreter.

Offers for parents, pupils and school staff.

Advice on topics like:

- What is healthy eating?
- How do I keep my body healthy?
- What symptoms require a doctor's visit?
- How will my chronically ill child get on in school?
- Which doctors are there for which illnesses and what happens during an examination? How do I request health centre stays, medical treatment etc.

Mediation

If your child needs medical treatment, we are happy to help you find the right doctor, an advice centre or clinic and arrange an appointment.

Offers for parents, pupils and school staff.

Support

If you wish, we can also accompany you to an initial appointment with a doctor or at an advice centre.

Group provision

Alongside individual consultation, we offer talks and group provision on health topics at the family primary school centres.

Health guide service

The health guide service is provided by the Cologne Health Authority. All offers are non-binding and subject to alteration. If you are interested, get in touch with the health guides at your primary school or with us at: Gesundheitslotsendienst@stadt-koeln.de
